

Speech pathologist assists locals with disorders

Whitney Thomas, 34, a speech-language pathologist living in Downtown Brooklyn, was originally on track to pursue nursing.

However, she learned about speech pathology during her time in college at Ohio State University, when she had a family member who suffered from a brain injury. Read more.